Study In Canada

Introduction

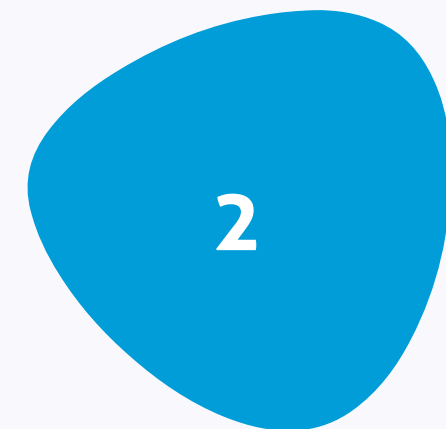

This guide explains the process and roadmap for securing admission to a Canadian College or University and the requirements for Temporary Visa/Study Permit application.

Study Roadmap

Study Evaluation

Before kick-starting your application process, we need to first understand your educational background and your immigration history. These factors determine your eligibility to apply for a Study Permit

Consultation

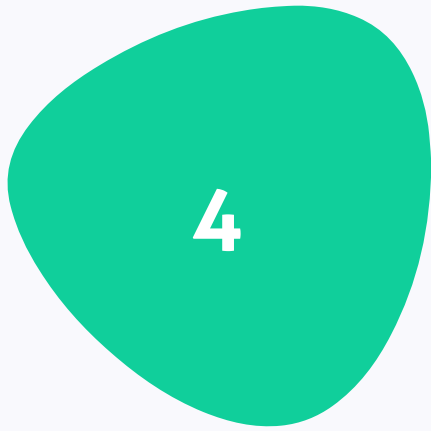

Every application comes with a non-refundable consultation fee of $50. We charge potential clients a consultation fee for discussing and giving advisory services regarding Canada Immigration, visit, Study, or temporary residency.

Finding a College or University

We will take care of the process of your application to colleges and universities from the start to completion. We will work with you to successfully secure a place in your preferred College or University. Each course/programme application comes with an applicable application fee (differs by school).

Tuition Deposit

After a conditional admission has been offered, prospective students will be required to pay their tuition deposit to get an unconditional offer letter of admission. This letter is part of the required documents for a study permit application.

Gathering Document

At this stage of the process, applicants will start gathering required documents for their study permit visa application. We will work with you know ensure you have the right documents for the application.

Visa Application

This is the final stage of the process. We will submit the application for study permit together with required documents and forms. Applicant will be required to pay for the applicable fees and biometrics.
